

Forensic Documentation

Academy of Chiropractic

Syllabus

20 CE credits Online

Faculty:

Mark Studin DC, FPSC, FASBE(C), DAAPM

Dan Rosner Esq.

Module 1: An Introduction to report writing in medical-legal environment. This section discusses how to organize your charts and prepare demonstrative examples based upon your clinical findings.

Module 2: Reviews how to document spinal biomechanical findings in both words and images.

Module 3: Illustrates how to document causality and bodily injury in cervical flexion and extension injuries.

Module 4: How to forensically document bodily injuries, inclusive of utilizing imaging studies that are labeled as part of your documentation.

Module 5: Understating that your curriculum vitae is part of your documentation; how to prepare it and present it in the medical-legal environment. How to use peer-reviewed medical literature in your documentation inclusive of appropriate citations.

Module 6: Documenting your credentials so they are admissible in a medical-legal environment.

Module 7: Organizing and presenting your documentation in a medical-legal environment. Part 1

Module 8: Organizing and presenting your documentation in a medical-legal environment. Part 2

Module 9: Organizing and defending your documentation in a medical-legal environment. Part 1

Module 10: Organizing and defending your documentation in a medical-legal environment. Part 2